Frontpage II

CS 102

Nov. 14, 2001

In this lab, you'll learn how to create a Web, create and format a web page, and add pages to a Web.

Preliminary

We're going to make it more convenient to get at the practice files. Follow these steps:

1. Right click on My Computer and choose Map Network Drive.

2. A dialog box will open. Select `S:` as the drive and enter `\\phoenix\cs102` as the folder. Select Reconnect at Logon.

3. You'll see a folder open after a few seconds. Close it.

4. Open My Computer and notice that you have an `S:` drive that you didn't have before. Open it and you'll see the practice folders we've been using all semester. From now on, you'll access these folders from the `S:` drive.

Lesson 2

Before starting lesson 2 in the FrontPage text read these notes:

1. Remember, you'll be using your `My Webs` folder, which you created the other day, in your personal folder on the `G:` drive.

2. At several points in the lesson, you're asked to enter a set of folders. For example on pg. 21 in step 3: `C:\My Webs\MyWizardDemo`. You'll need to modify this to access the `My Webs` folder you created on the `G:` drive.

   If, when you open the `G:` drive, it directly opens your personal folder you would modify the above set of folders to

   > `G:\My Webs\MyWizardDemo`

   If, when you open the `G:` drive, you must navigate to your personal folder and then open it you would modify the above set of folders to

   > `G:\Your Name\My Webs\MyWizardDemo`

   Make sure you change `Your Name` to your login name!!!

3. When you import the Lesson 2 practice web (pg. 30, step 4), you want to look inside the `S:` drive you connected earlier.
